LADY LUCK LINES UP TO HER NAME

The way in which the Lady Luck lives up to her name was well lilustrated Friday when this picture was taken. An after-noon's augling, landed nine big fish and the next day one of the party was married. Capt. II. D. Denson promises prospective par-ties only to get the fish, how-ever.

FISHERMEN LAUNCH OFFENSIVE ON FINNY DENIZENS OF MIAMI WATERS

Aroused Anglers Press Gulf Stream Drive When Fish Spurn Demand for Unconditional Surrender to Be Dealt With According to Their Edibility; Prisoners Brought In.

Walt broke out yesterday in Miami waters between fish and fishermen. The outbreak is regarded as a breach of an armistice, and serious results are expected. In fact, several anglers have announced their intention of going out into the Guif stream and showing the rebellious fish their places—in a fish box.

The fishermen are more or less reticent to discuss the situation, which is an unusual frame of mind for fishermen to be in. And the fish have relapsed into the silence which usually marks their conduct. It will be remembered that only one newspaperman in the memory of Miamians has been able to make the fish talk, and since he broke the association the best that anybody has been able to get out of the finny ones is grunts—which same emanates londly from some of the fish one cutches along the causeway and water fron various finormation draw and inch wanted information draw in an inch wanted information of the fish rule the schools of fish in the fulf stream have allowed certain of their pupils in the forth of the fish rule the schools of fish in the fulf stream, to take a mile, so to speak. The fish, however, felt that advantage had been taken, and one, a large grouper, got it into his head to revenge himself. Now a grouper's hoad is a large affair with a very wide opening, lined with teeth. There was not only room enough for ideas, but room enough for execution, and as he was being lifted to dock the grouper clamped down his jaws on the hand that was holding him. Wherefore Mr. Underwood found his finger, as neatly punctured as anight finger as neatly punctured as might

AMBERIACK CAPTURED BY BONITO'S ANGLERS

THE fact that the amberjack are still doing noble duty in the Gulf stream, in the matter of giving anglers what they are looking for, is attested by Capt. Tommy Gifford, skipper of the Bonito. Now 'tis said concerning tmberjack that if you go out one day and catch a bunch, that just happened. If you go out a sec ond day and make a big catch, it's the fault of the fish. But if you're able to turn the trick for the third straight time, you're entitled to credit. And that's just what Captain Tommy did.

The catch of the day, made after a late start, topped everything on the largest running up to about 45 pounds. In addition, there were three fine grouper—a total of almost 400 pounds of fish. With Captain Gifford were Harry Burdick / and Richard Morgan.
